Preamble

The Global Sustainable Tourism Council (GSTC) Criteria were created to provide a common understanding of sustainable tourism. The GSTC Destinations Criteria – known informally also as “GSTC-D” -- are the minimum that any tourism destination should aspire to reach. They are organized around four main themes: sustainable management; socio-economic impacts; cultural impacts; and environmental impacts. They have applicability to the entire tourism sector.

The GSTC Criteria have been developed and revised while striving to adhere to the Standard-Setting Code of the ISEAL Alliance, the body recognized to provide guidance on international norms for developing sustainability standards in all sectors. The most recent revision of the GSTC-D took place in 2019 and was based on two rounds of stakeholder consultation. Information on the development of the criteria and plans for future revisions are available on www.gstccouncil.org.

What are the Criteria for?

Some of the uses of the GSTC Destination Criteria include the following:

- Serve as the basis for certification for sustainability
- Serve as basic guidelines for destinations that wish to become more sustainable
- Help consumers identify sound sustainable tourism destinations
- Serve as a common denominator for information media to recognize destinations and inform the public regarding their sustainability
- Help certification and other voluntary destination level programs ensure that their standards meet a broadly accepted baseline
- Offer governmental, non-governmental, and private sector programs a starting point for developing sustainable tourism requirements
- Serve as basic guidelines for education and training bodies, such as tourism schools and universities
- Demonstrate leadership that inspires others to act.

The Criteria indicate what should be done, not how to do it or whether the goal has been achieved. This role is fulfilled by performance indicators, associated educational materials, and access to tools for implementation, all of which are an indispensable complement to the GSTC Criteria.

To whom do the Criteria apply?

The GSTC-D have been designed for destinations¹. The criteria do not relate to a single body but rather to a named place that can be uniquely identified. The criteria simply require that the condition described pertains in that destination, irrespective of what body may be responsible for it or how or by whom any related action is implemented.

¹ A destination has been defined by the World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) as: “A physical space with or without administrative and/or analytical boundaries in which a visitor can spend an overnight. It is the cluster (co-location) of products and services, and of activities and experiences along the tourism value chain and a basic unit of analysis of tourism. A destination incorporates various stakeholders and can network to form larger destinations”.

The scope of the GSTC-D is broad and the Criteria can be applied to a wide range of destinations. They may be in any part of the world and of any type (e.g. urban, rural, mountain, coastal or mixed). The criteria can relate to large destinations (e.g. sizeable cities or regions) and to small ones (e.g. national parks, clusters of local communities, etc.).

While the GSTC-D relate to the place, not to a body, many of the criteria may nevertheless be taken up by and applied through a destination management organisation which is responsible for a coordinated approach to sustainable tourism within the destination. The existence of such an organisation is a central requirement of the GSTC-D, as stipulated in Criterion A1. It should be noted that such an organisation is not necessarily a local authority or public sector body and requires the involvement of both the public and private sector.

Some of the criteria refer to enterprises. These may be individual businesses but they may also be other forms of facility, operation and undertaking. For example they could include museums, festivals, public buildings and monuments, not only commercial businesses such as hotels or paid attractions.

Performance indicators and SDGs

The performance indicators presented here are designed to provide guidance in measuring compliance with the criteria. They are not intended to be the definitive set or all-inclusive, but to provide a solid sample set for users of the GSTC C-D in developing their own indicator sets. The performance indicators essentially provide a suggested list of circumstances, factors, evidence and actions to be looked for in a destination in assessing compliance with the criteria.

Application of the criteria will help a destination to contribute towards the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the 17 Sustainable Development Goals. Against each of the criteria, one or more of the 17 SDGs is identified, to which it most closely relates.

Language and Translations

English is the official language of the GSTC Criteria and its related system.

Translations into other languages appearing on the GSTC website or elsewhere are to be used for training and awareness purposes and are not authorized for usage in technical programs including certification and accreditation except where specifically stipulated by formal agreement between the GSTC or its authorized Accreditation Body and the standard owner and/or Certification Body. In the case of authorized usage of a language other than English, any doubt regarding interpretation of the Criteria shall revert to the official English language version.

Transition period

The transition periods for replacing GSTC Destination Criteria v1.0 with v2.0 are based on function, as follows:

- For purposes of policy-setting, training, and any other purposes not related to certification, v2.0 should be used with immediate effect
- Owners of GSTC-Recognized destination/community standards shall have a period of two years to comply with the new v2.0, up to 31st December 2021. Owners may wish to adapt their standard to the revisions earlier, but should do so no later than June 30th, 2021, to allow time for any necessary adjustments per GSTC's review of the compliance of those changes.
- Certification Bodies that were accredited to certify destinations to GSTC Destination Criteria v1.0 must have the revised v2.0 fully integrated into the certification system with evidence of past application of it by December 31st, 2021. Their normal maintenance of accredited status shall not be delayed during the transition period. New applicants for Accreditation after December 2019 must ensure that they are using GSTC-D v2.0, or a GSTC-Recognized standard that is equivalent to v2.0, prior to submitting an application for Accreditation.

Revisions to the GSTC Criteria

This version (v2.0) has been formally adopted by the Board of the Directors as the definitive version of the GSTC Destination Criteria (GSTC-D), as from 6 December 2019.

This version of the GSTC Destination Criteria (v2.0) is the 1st revision since their December 2013 formal release.

GSTC shall conduct periodic reviews of no less than five years after the previous revision to determine whether the current version remains relevant and whether and when a formal revision process should commence. The next such review shall likely take place approximately December 2024. GSTC welcomes comment on the Criteria at any time via the Criteria section of www.gstcouncil.org. Should comments provide evidence of need to conduct a review earlier than December 2024, GSTC may conduct a review at an earlier date.

The structure of the criteria

The criteria are in four sections, each with two or three sub-sections, as shown below. The order of the sections and sub-sections in no way indicates the relative importance of each topic.

SECTION A: Sustainable management A(a) Management structure and framework A(b) Stakeholder engagement A(c) Managing pressure and change	SECTION C: Cultural sustainability C(a) Protecting cultural heritage C(b) Visiting cultural sites
